Voice Mobility Adds Unity Telecom to Reseller Network

VANCOUVER, BC, CANADA – June 21, 2007 – Voice Mobility International, Inc. (TSX: VMY, OTCBB: VMII and FWB: VMY), a Vancouver-based developer and provider of carrier-grade enhanced messaging solutions, reinforced its reseller network by partnering with Unity Telecom. Unity Telecom designs, implements and supports best-of-breed IP-based business communication systems.

Based in Canada, Unity Telecom provides powerful integrated business productivity solutions to clients, which help them meet their business objectives through a variety of technical and financial models. Unity Telecom is currently building a Hosted IPT / Messaging offer for clients in the greater Toronto area.

Unity's integrated solution provides seamless access to business productivity tools such as IP soft phone, voice mail, fax, e-mail, contacts, calendars, and corporate server information providing mobility, simplicity, and productivity. Mobile workers access and act upon information anytime and anywhere resulting in a more responsive customer service model.

"The introduction of Voice Mobility messaging platform into Unity's solution suite greatly improves our ability to provide comprehensive solutions for our customers' needs. VMI's hosted model, scalability, feature set, and price point make it extremely attractive to Unity; more importantly, it is an incredibly powerful business tool for our customers", said Randy Bergeron, Vice President of Enterprise Sales for Unity Telecom.

"The demand for enterprise messaging solutions is increasing as legacy messaging systems require replacement and as communication systems are migrated to IP-telephony solutions", said Randy Buchamer, CEO of Voice Mobility. "Unity Telecom is a trusted supplier of voice and data communications solutions and we are happy to add them to our distribution channel."

Unity Telecom will add Voice Mobility's UCN 100, 250 and 1000 messaging platforms to their suite of products and services.
